

Carl Ray Woolheater

January 6, 1936 - October 15, 2024

Pocatello, Idaho

Carl Ray Woolheater, 88, of Pocatello, died on October 15, 2024. Born on January 6, 1936 and raised among Japanese-American manners that never needed a speech. From the start, he treated promises like tools: keep them sharp, do not lend them lightly.

He bagged ash that had to look inevitable on pallets. A soda ash bagger stitch needle kit rebuilt more trust than memos. Colleagues still mention a soda ash bagger stitch needle kit.

He married Joyce in 1961. They kept a house that stayed modest when the neighborhood did not. They raised a son and a daughter through public schools and ordinary weather. After Joyce died in 2017, he kept the routines that still made sense: the walk, the garden, the Sunday call.

Neighbors remember a wave from the driveway that meant you were seen. He preferred the hour before a town fully wakes. Pocatello was home enough that he never rehearsed an introduction. The Sunday call still has a time slot in the house.

Services

A memorial gathering in Pocatello with coffee afterward. In lieu of flowers, a gift to a local workers' fund, clinic, or neighborhood library is welcome.
