

Clyde Dean Coppernoll

March 11, 1933 - December 2, 2003

Hartford, Connecticut

Clyde Dean Coppernoll died in Hartford on December 2, 2003. He was 70. Born on March 11, 1933 and raised among Mexican-American manners that never needed a speech. He learned that neighborhoods remember who helps without being asked.

He cut ferns until trays looked inevitable on trucks. A fernery cutter knife sheath oiled decided what the shed could sell. Colleagues still mention a fernery cutter knife sheath oiled.

In 1959 he married Alice. The marriage was not a speech; it was groceries, repairs, and four children walked to school in weather that did not care. When Alice died in 1996, he kept what still worked: the early walk, the small garden, the call on Sundays.

Neighbors remember coffee offered before questions. He liked early mornings before the heat or the noise. He died in Hartford, among streets he never needed to explain. The porch still expects a returning step.

What remains is not a legend but a practice: showing up, keeping a promise, leaving a place better than you found it. His life was the kind America is built from and too often forgets to name.

Services

Services in Hartford will be simple: stories, coffee, and the names of people who showed up. Flowers optional; support for a local clinic or trade scholarship preferred.
