

Evelyn Lou Isherwood

November 27, 1955 - July 26, 2025

Santa Fe, New Mexico

On July 26, 2025, Evelyn Lou Isherwood died at home in Santa Fe. She was 69. Born in Santa Fe on November 27, 1955, into a French-Canadian household that treated work as a language. Early on, she decided that a paycheck and a handshake should weigh the same.

She worked machines that never held still. A fleshing machine glove liner dried by the stove taught waiting. Colleagues still mention a fleshing machine glove liner.

She and William married in 1979 and raised one son without needing an audience. After William's death in 2018, she held to quiet habits-coffee before dawn, a tended yard, a voice on the phone that still checked in.

Neighbors remember a shovel borrowed and returned sharper. Mornings were her favorite shift at home. She died in Santa Fe, on streets that already knew her pace. The Sunday call still has a time slot in the house.

What remains is not a legend but a practice: showing up, keeping a promise, leaving a place better than you found it. Her life was the kind America is built from and too often forgets to name.

Services

A quiet remembrance in Santa Fe. Those who wish may give to a neighborhood library, food pantry, or workers' aid fund instead of flowers.
