

Harold Lee Livingston

May 25, 1933 - July 9, 2012

Trenton, New Jersey

Harold Lee Livingston, 79, of Trenton, died on July 9, 2012. Born May 25, 1933 in Trenton, carrying Dutch-American stories that arrived without footnotes. Young, he understood that quiet competence outlasts loud plans.

He led a floor that smelled of piecework and care. A peat packing paddle chalked taught apprentices that shortcuts show. Colleagues still mention a peat packing paddle chalked.

He and Dorothy married in 1960 and raised four children without needing an audience. After Dorothy's death in 2005, he held to quiet habits-coffee before dawn, a tended yard, a voice on the phone that still checked in.

Neighbors remember snow shoveled past the corner that was not required. Mornings were his favorite shift at home. He died in Trenton, on streets that already knew his pace. The radio is still tuned to the station that played while work got done.

What remains is not a legend but a practice: showing up, keeping a promise, leaving a place better than you found it. His life was the kind America is built from and too often forgets to name.

Services

A quiet remembrance in Trenton. Those who wish may give to a neighborhood library, food pantry, or workers' aid fund instead of flowers.
