

Patrick Sean Klingelhofer

April 25, 1933 - December 11, 2025

Eugene, Oregon

Friends in Eugene remember Patrick Sean Klingelhofer, who died on December 11, 2025 at 92. Born in Eugene on April 25, 1933; Irish-American cooking and payday thrift set the tone of the house. He learned early that a day is something you finish, not something you wait for.

He rejected patches that would embarrass a season. A plywood patch iron stand was his preferred tool. Colleagues still mention a plywood patch iron stand.

He and Sandra married in 1960 and raised four children without needing an audience. After Sandra's death in 2018, he held to quiet habits-coffee before dawn, a tended yard, a voice on the phone that still checked in.

Neighbors remember snow shoveled past the corner that was not required. He preferred the hour before a town fully wakes. Eugene was home enough that he never rehearsed an introduction. The radio is still tuned to the station that played while work got done.

What remains is not a legend but a practice: showing up, keeping a promise, leaving a place better than you found it. His life was the kind America is built from and too often forgets to name.

Services

A quiet remembrance in Eugene. Those who wish may give to a neighborhood library, food pantry, or workers' aid fund instead of flowers.
