

Walter James Vlastic

January 1, 1936 - August 1, 2026

Birmingham, Alabama

Friends in Birmingham remember Walter James Vlastic, who died on August 1, 2026 at 90. Born January 1, 1936 in Birmingham, carrying Croatian-American stories that arrived without footnotes. From the start, he treated promises like tools: keep them sharp, do not lend them lightly.

He weighed harvests that decided winters for whole townships. A grain ticket spike worn smooth was honesty you could hold. Colleagues still mention a grain ticket spike worn smooth.

He married Helen in 1961. They kept a house that stayed modest when the neighborhood did not. They raised two daughters through public schools and ordinary weather. After Helen died in 2019, he kept the routines that still made sense: the walk, the garden, the Sunday call.

Neighbors remember a wave from the driveway that meant you were seen. He liked early mornings before the heat or the noise. He died in Birmingham, among streets he never needed to explain. The recipe card is still stained in the useful places.

Services

A memorial gathering in Birmingham with coffee afterward. In lieu of flowers, a gift to a local workers' fund, clinic, or neighborhood library is welcome.
